

Copyright

Dwelltime lay claim to the structure/framework of the site and its operating functionality. By contrast the contributions are the personal copyright property of each contributor and they have the right to delete or edit their own contributions as and when they wish.

Disclaimer

Dwelltime undertake to act as an honest and trusted source on the web through content generated by our contributors. Through a registration process, the posting of their profile, and by our constant monitoring, they are to the best of our knowledge, genuine academics teaching and researching at a reputable University. We do not however accept responsibility for the accuracy or otherwise of their contributions.

Any links they make to external sites are the responsibility of the contributor. It should be noted that it is likely that links to external sites are in many cases to material the contributor has either written or contributed to.

Additionally, where a subject/topic is being debated we do not endorse the contents of the debate or the tone and direction/s the debate is taking, these are the specific views of each of the contributors.

The views expressed in all contributions are the views of the contributor and Dwelltime does not necessarily agree with them.